The King's Cup Global Invitational (KCGI) 2025, hosted by Bitget, the world's premier cryptocurrency exchange and Web3 innovator, has launched its Team Battle phase, sparking fierce competition among traders worldwide. Commencing on 24 July 2025 and running until 12 August, this electrifying stage offers a colossal prize pool of 6,000,000 USDT, alongside exclusive rewards such as LALIGA VIP tickets and MotoGP passes. The event, which unites trading communities across the globe, is poised to redefine crypto trading as a collaborative and competitive spectacle.

From 14 to 23 July, traders rallied to form alliances, with over 1,300 teams already registered. These squads, led by strategic captains, are preparing for what Bitget's CEO, Gracy Chen, describes as a celebration of "global collaboration and strategic prowess." In a recent interview with The Manila Times, Chen stated, "The Team Battle brings KCGI's spirit of global collaboration to life, uniting traders across borders to celebrate community power, strategic thinking, and Web3's long-term growth." This emphasis on unity and skill makes KCGI 2025 a unique platform for both seasoned traders and ambitious newcomers to showcase their expertise.

To participate in the Team Battle, teams must consist of at least 10 members and achieve a collective trading volume of 30,000 USDT. The 3,000,000 USDT prize pool for this segment is distributed as follows: 1.2 million USDT for top teams based on profit and loss (P&L), another 1.2 million USDT for regional teams excelling in return on investment (ROI), and 300,000 USDT each for individual P&L and ROI rankings. Team captains are further incentivised with exclusive perks, including ROI reset cards and up to 10% of their team's rewards. Additionally, the first 200 captains whose teams meet eligibility criteria will share a 100,000 USDT pool in Bitget's native token, BGB, rewarding swift and effective leadership.

The tournament's structure fosters strategic diversity, allowing teams to blend high-frequency trading with long-term investment approaches. With live leaderboards tracking every trade, the event is designed to fuel competitive spirit and keep participants engaged. Social media platforms are already buzzing with team battle cries, as rivalries form across regions like APAC, LATAM, MENA, and Europe. Bitget is amplifying this excitement by highlighting standout teams and milestones through its global marketing channels, ensuring top performers gain well-deserved recognition.

Registration remains open until 9 August, offering traders a final chance to join the fray. Interested participants can sign up via Bitget's official KCGI page.
