Binance Coin (BNB) has crossed the 790 USDT threshold, reaching 791.15 USDT as of early morning trading on July 23. The cryptocurrency posted a 3.35% gain over the past 24 hours, continuing its upward momentum in the broader crypto market.

The price surge positions BNB among the top-performing large-cap digital assets for the day, driven by renewed market activity and positive sentiment surrounding Binance's ecosystem. BNB's rally may be influenced by increased user engagement with Binance Smart Chain applications and trading activity across Binance's exchange platforms.

Market analysts are watching closely to see whether BNB can maintain support above the 790 level and push toward higher resistance zones, especially amid a period of rising market interest in utility-based cryptocurrencies.

BNB, which serves as the native token for the Binance ecosystem, has shown resilience throughout various market cycles. The current movement reflects broader optimism in the digital asset sector and increased investor appetite for platform tokens.
