Pakistan's snooker talent is making waves at the International Billiards and Snooker Federation (IBSF) 6 Reds World Cup, with multiple players advancing to knockout stages and continuing a strong streak of international success.

Pakistani snooker players are making their mark on the international stage once again, delivering impressive performances at the ongoing International Billiards and Snooker Federation (IBSF) 6 Reds World Cup. Held in Iran, the event has witnessed a strong showing from Pakistan's top cueists, many of whom have advanced to the knockout stages.

Among the standout performers is former world champion Mohammad Asif, who has maintained his excellent form throughout the group stages. Asif's precision and calm under pressure have made him a consistent threat to his competitors, and his victories have further strengthened Pakistan's standing in the international snooker community.

Alongside him, rising star Babar Masih has also delivered solid results. Known for his strategic play and sharp potting, Babar continues to prove that he belongs among the best in the world. His progress to the later rounds of the tournament is a testament to both his skill and determination.

Other Pakistani cueists, including Haris Tahir and Ahsan Ramzan, have also contributed to the country's strong presence in the tournament. Their collective performance shows that Pakistan's snooker scene is not only surviving but thriving, with both experienced players and young talents stepping up on the world stage.
