Outing Addison Rae, the 24-year-old singer and actress known for her hit “Diet Pepsi,” encountered an embarrassing wardrobe malfunction while collecting her mail in Los Angeles on August 4, 2025. Dressed casually in an oversized T-shirt and tiny shorts, Rae inadvertently exposed her derriere as she juggled a package, magazine, shopping bag, and water bottle. The outfit, while relaxed on top, featured a stylish flair with patriotic cowboy boots and knee-high socks, reflecting her fashion-forward persona. The incident, captured by paparazzi, quickly drew attention amid her rising fame and recent personal developments. The outing follows speculation about Rae’s romantic life, as she was recently spotted with singer Sombr, fueling dating rumors. The pair appeared affectionate, sharing a laugh and a warm hug outside their ride, as reported by the Daily Mail. Their chemistry was evident in Sombr's retro-inspired music video for his single "12 to 12," released days earlier, where Rae stars as his love interest. The video features sensual dance scenes and a near-kiss, adding to the buzz about their relationship. Rae was previously linked to music producer Omer Fedi, with whom she was seen from June 2021 until at least January 2025. In a January Rolling Stone interview, Rae confirmed she was still dating Fedi, though recent months have seen no public appearances together, suggesting a possible shift.

Rae's focus has largely been on her burgeoning music career. In June 2025, she released her debut studio album, Addison, which has garnered significant attention. Following the album's success, she announced her first world tour, dubbed the Addison Tour, set to begin on August 26 in Dublin, Ireland. The tour will cover major cities across Europe, including Manchester, London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, and Cologne, before moving to North America and concluding in Sydney, Australia, in November. The sold-out tour underscores Rae's growing influence, transitioning from a TikTok star with over 88 million followers to a mainstream artist.

Her rise to fame began with viral dance videos on TikTok, leading to acting roles in films like He's All That (2021) and Thanksgiving (2023). Rae's music career took off with her 2021 single "Obsessed," followed by collaborations with artists like Charli XCX. Her recent work, including the Addison album and its lead single "Diet Pepsi," has been praised for its bold pop sound, with Vogue noting her "undeniable charisma." The wardrobe mishap, while a minor setback, highlights the intense scrutiny Rae faces as a public figure navigating fame and personal life.

Rae's ability to balance her career and personal challenges remains evident. Despite the wardrobe incident, she continues to engage fans with her vibrant social media presence, often sharing glimpses of her style and music. The Sombr rumors, while unconfirmed, align with her creative collaborations, as seen in the "12 to 12" video, which has sparked excitement among fans. As Rae prepares for her global tour, her resilience in the face of public attention—whether for a fashion slip or romantic speculation—underscores her determination to focus on her artistry and connect with audiences worldwide.
