

OpenVoiceNews Australia

Transparent. Unbiased. Yours.

Police Appeal to Find Missing Sans Souci Teenager

August 9, 2025

– Categories: Crime, General News

New South Wales police have issued a public appeal to locate a teenager who has been reported missing from the suburb of Sans Souci, Sydney.

The missing person is 16-year-old , last seen in the Sans Souci area. Authorities are concerned for their welfare and have urged anyone with information about their whereabouts to come forward.

According to police reports, was last observed on , and has not made contact with family or friends since. Law enforcement is actively investigating the case and coordinating search efforts.

Police have released a photo of the teenager to assist the public in identifying them. Descriptions indicate that is approximately , with hair and was last seen wearing .

Community members are encouraged to report any sightings or relevant information to the NSW Police Missing Persons Unit immediately. Tips can be provided anonymously, and all information will be treated confidentially.

This appeal forms part of ongoing efforts by NSW police to locate missing persons swiftly and ensure their safety. Authorities remind the public that even seemingly minor information could be critical in locating a missing individual.

Missing persons cases can sometimes involve circumstances that put the individual at risk, including health concerns or safety threats. Therefore, police emphasize the importance of early reporting.

The NSW Police Missing Persons Unit can be contacted on , or through their website at , where further details about the case and resources for families are available.

Sans Souci is a coastal suburb located approximately 18 kilometers south of Sydney's central business district. The community has shown strong support in past appeals, assisting police in finding missing persons.

NSW Police continue to encourage vigilance and cooperation from the public. They remind people to check on friends and family, especially teenagers who may be vulnerable or experiencing difficulties.

The police investigation remains ongoing, and updates will be provided as new information becomes available.

Anyone with information is urged to contact NSW Police or Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000.